U. S. AIR BEST MUSIC, CLAIM

John C. Freund, Song Expert, Says National Anthem Has No Rival.

"The Star Spangled Banner transcends all music," John C. Freund, editor of Musical America, declared in his lecture at Central High School yesterday afternoon.

"As the expression of the soul of 100,000,000 people, written in a moment of intense patriotism, the song can have no rival in the world of music," he said.

Mr. Freund declared that the songs of the people have always been their inspiration to greatness.

"From the people," he said, "have come our greatest songs and our greatest singers. There is no class in music and it is to the people music must turn for its lasting support."

In making a plea for a government ministry of music, Mr. Freund declared that music had been one of the chief factors in winning the war, pointing out the prominent place given music in all camps and on the battle field.

The speaker declared that the United States was one of the most musical countries in the world, citing as an example of the stress placed on music in many of our largest cities, the municipal music committee recently appointed in Denver, Colo.

Mr. Freund urged that the musicians of America study in their own country, declaring that the facilities for study are as great as they are abroad.

"We have declared a political and industrial independence," he said, "let us make our declaration of musical independence."

Mr. Freund said that in the production of musical instruments the United States led the world, and predicted that in the future she would also lead in the production of musicians.

A program, under the direction of Gilbert Wilson, song leader at Quantico, was given.

On the program were Miss Mary Helen Howe, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Felix Gariglia, Sergt. Carey Edward McAfee, organist, and a group of children trained by Mr. Wilson.

THRIFT AND SAVINGS STAMP PRICES DIFFER

Former Worth 25 Cents—Latter to Sell for $5.

Purchasers of 1919 war savings stamps should not place them on 1918 certificates. If the 1918 certificate has blank spaces, just put the certificate away without filling it in with 1919 stamps.

The same thrift stamps and thrift cards are used this year as were used last year, and when a thrift card holding sixteen stamps is filled, it will be exchanged for a 1919 war savings stamp on payment of the additional cents, which represents the difference between the price of the war savings stamps and $4, the value of the sixteen thrift stamps.

The thrift stamps are worth 25 cents. The war savings stamps will be worth $5 in a few years.
